

*With good discipline
we can help our children
to grow up safe and healthy.*

discipline: WHERE DO I START?

Simione has lived in Sydney for a year and believes in bringing up his family the traditional way with strong discipline. His teenage children have different ideas. They both want the freedom their school friends enjoy, such as being allowed to stay out late at parties. Simione, his wife and their teenage children are now arguing so much that the whole family is becoming miserable. At a church meeting, Simione's Minister encourages parents to speak more openly to their children and listen to their views. He says that with better communication, families can find the answers to problems. Simione and his wife decide to give it a try.